

Categories of Membership

General Membership may be held by an individual who is employed as a healthcare management professional and devotes the majority of his/her efforts to healthcare administration.

General Company Membership provides the opportunity for up to three (3) employees from the same company to receive benefits at a reduced cost. Company memberships are a great way to get your colleagues involved in the many benefits CMGMA has to offer.

Allied Membership may be held by an individual or company who devotes the majority of his/her efforts to the administration of an allied professional (non-physician) group.

Affiliate Membership may be held by persons with interests in the purposes of the Association.

Affiliate Company Membership provides the opportunity three or more employees from the same company to receive CMGMA benefits.

Student Membership may be held by any person not working full time as a healthcare management professional and who is enrolled in an accredited school.

Additional employees can be added to General and Allied Company memberships for a reduced fee.*
